When the kids are alright, the adults are too! A harmonious house design means a harmonious family that can live (and shower!) in their own zones but also come together in others. In this design, the upstairs is purely for the kids ensuring they have their own bathroom, living space and bedrooms and the adults have their own sanity downstairs.

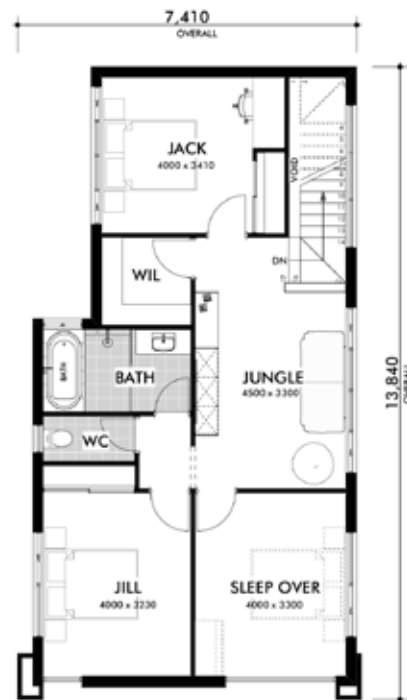

A big advantage of a two storey design is creating separation but also giving you flexibility in configuring separate living and sleeping spaces. By creating separation, you can add years to the suitability and usage of your home as the kids grow.
